TO RELIEVE MONEY MARKET.

SECRETARY SHAW PREPARED TO RELEASE $1,000,000.

Will Deposit That Amount in Banks Holding Free or Unpledged Bonds-Has Also Decided to Anticipate October Interest, Amounting to $4,000,000.

Washington, Sept. 13 .- Secretary Shaw has made arrangements to release about $4,000,000 of the Treasury holdings. He has had a list prepared of those national banks throughout the country which held free or unpledged bonds at the date of their last report and has made inquiry for others. After making allowance for changed conditions since last report he expects this will release at least $4,000,000. He has sent not ce to all such that if they will send these bonds to the Treasurer of the United States in sums of $15,000 or more, they will be designated as temporary depositaries, and the face value of the bonds will be deposited with them to the credit of the Treas-

He has pursued this course in preference to designating depositaries in the ordinary way, which compels them to buy bonds in the market at a large premium, thus paying out more for the bonds than they get from the Government. The customs receipts are extremely heavy at this particular season of the year, and the cash balance of the Treasurer has been gradually

Mr. Shaw has also decided to anticipate the October interest, amounting to about $4,200,000, and with this in view orders have been issued to the various Sub-Treasuries to cash such coupons as may be presented to them for payment, and the Treasurer of the United States has been instructed to mail checks for interest on the registered bonds. All this was decided upon some days ago and letters and telegrams prepared days ago and letters and telegrans prepared for to-day.

The Secretary sees in present conditions no occasion for alarm. He calls attention to the fact that there is no evidence of a currency famine, present or prospective, elsewhere than in New York, and even there the rate is not high for commercial paper, and for commercial paper he has the greater solicitude. He is well satisfied with his efforts to increase circulation, which he decided upon in the early summer, when present conditions were plainly visible, and has a stock of bank notes ready to meet an emergency, which he does not expect, but which he thinks it wise to provide against. Thus far he has made requests only to such banks as hold large deposits and have very limited circulation, and he and have very limited circulation, and he is not asking these to increase to the maxi-mum nor to increase at all for the present. He does not desire to force the banks into the market to buy bonds at a rate higher than the Government is willing to pay.

He wishes, however, to make the best possible use of the free bonds now held by the banks, and incidentally to encourage banks to hold free bonds during the dull banks to hold free bonds during the dull months, believing that it is much better to hold bonds that will yield even 1½ per cent. than to make call loans at 2 per cent. He is, therefore, giving the banks that hold these free bonds an opportunity to use them to best advantage. This method if pursued by the banks would give a slight element of elasticity to an otherwise inelastic currency exercise.

The Secretary's position as regards increasing circulation is perhaps best ex-pressed in the following letter, which he recently sent to a bank that had been already buying bonds:

I find it well-nizh impossible to convey the rurport of my request even to the banks of whom I have made the request, much less to the public. first -- in case of imminent danger or actual disaster I will be compelled to use Government deposits to buy increased clean to the compelled to use the compelled to use the compelled to use the compelled to th

The amount of their circulation must be determined by their directors, but inasmuch as the public holds the Secretary of the Treasury comewhat responsible for existing conditions I deem myself justified in using the public funds now held by various banks on deposit as I think best for the public good, and in case of trouble I may think best to use these to buy increased circulation, the banks now helding such funds having prefbanks now holding such funds having pref-

Local bank officers were of the opinion yesterday that the measures taken by Secretary Slaw were not sufficient to afford very material relief to the stringent money good. This amount, in the bankers pinion, was really but a drop in the bucket the sum needed to give effective relief. The situation continues tied up because of ment bonds, which are at prohibitive market

THE LONDON MARKET.

Trading Entirely in Professional Hands

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Sept. 13 .- Consols were fairly steady in the stock market to-day. Short loans were rather easier, but discounts were firm. There was less firmness in shares of English roads, while American railroad securities were affected by the stringency of money at New York and the expectation of a poor bank statement The market, however, was entirely in the hands of professionals. South African mining shares were fairly firm. Foreign Government securities were inactive.

THE DEVIL'S HOLE MASSACRE. REBELS ADVANCING ON COLON Tablet Unveiled at Niagara Falls, in Commemoration of the Event.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 13 .- On Sept. 14, 1763, a wagon train which had come up from Lewiston, loaded with supplies for Detroit, set out from Schlesser Dock on the return down the famous Niagara portage. An escort of twentyfive men, accompanied by John Stedman, had charge of the train. Five hundred Senecas, chiefly Chenussios, lay in wait the upper and lower ends of the route.

for them on the road midway between As the doomed company filed along the brink of the Niagara cañon a murderous volley was fired by the hidden savages, who then sprang forth from their concealment, thirty to forty to one of the survivors of the volley, and butchered them with tomahawk and knife.

This point in the old portage has ever since been known as the Devil's Hole, and to-day, in commemoration of the massacre of 139 years ago, a tablet was unveiled to mark the spot. This tablet is one of several placed by the Niagara Landmarks Associaion to denote famous places in the early history of western New York. While the bloody massacre of years ago took place on the road on the high bank far above, the tablet unveiled to-day is on a big boulder on the line of the electric road that runs through the beautiful Niagara gorge, and there this afternoon many interested in historical matters assembled to participate in the exercises.

George A. Stringer, president of the Society of Colonial Wars, presided. The programme opened with an invocation by the Rev. John A. Ward, and introductory remarks were made by Chairman Stringer. on behalf of the Gorge road. Herbert P. Bissell made a presentation of the tablet, which was unveiled by Mrs. John Miller Horton of the Society of Colonial Dames. George D. Emerson accepted on behalf of George D. or reasted at an inland castle, flung themor roasted at an inland castle, flung them-selves over the high bank

Among the latter was a drummer boy of the name of Matthews, who plunged into a tree top, from which he descended to the rocks below without fatal injuries. When the attack was made John Stedman, famous in Niagara history, spurred his horse and returned to Fort Schlosser. So far as known only three persons survived the massacre. The firing was heard by the guard at the lower end of the portage. They hastened to the scene, but the savages had completed the destruction of the train and its escort, and, having warning of the approach of the guard, hid in the bushes. Once more the Indians saided forth, tomahawks in hand, and the frightful slaugh-ter was repeated. Eight men escaped and carried the tidings of the disaster to Fort Niagara. The garrison immediately marched to the scene of the slaughter, but the savages had retired. At the spot a rivulet falls into the glen. It is called "Bloody Run," for on Sept. 14, 1763, it became such when it was crimisoned by the frightful butchery on its banks.

N. P. OPENSITS DENVERGATEWAY New Indication of Harmony Between Harriman and Morgan-Hill Roads. The Union Pacific management has opened its Denver gateway to the Rock Island and the Burlington systems. This gateway has been closed to all roads since 1896, and the policy of the Union Pacific people has been the subject of much grumbling on the part of traffic managers of the Western roads. Hereafter the Rock Island is to have the use of the important Denver gateway for both freight and passenger traffic, and the Burlington is admitted to the same privi-lege for freight traffic. This concession to the Burlington is regarded as establishing more harmonious relations between the Harriman roads and the Morgan-Hill lines. One of the traffic officers of the Union Pacific system said yesterday that the new policy was based solely on business conditions.

The Rock Island, it is expected, will reap large advantage in the routing of traffic for North Pacific coast points.

Girls Take Their Places in Sheriff De

Bragga's Restaurant in Long Island City. The corps of zebra waiters who have served the tables in Sheriff Joseph De Bragga's restaurant on the top floor of the Queens county court building in Long Island City, will be missed from their accustomed places to-morrow, when the several courts open for the fall terms.

For more than one hundred years the Sheriffs of that county have maintained restaurants in the court house. As the jail is connected with the court house, the tables were served by short term prisoners or men waiting trial. All the Judges, clerks, District Attorney and attachés of the court, including the witnesses, dine at the Sheriff's table, and it appears that it became distasteful to the Judges to be served by men whom they had sentenced or whom they were likely to the or whom they were likely to try.

In consequence, Sheriff De Bragga changed the staff of waiters by advertising for waitresses, and a small army of applicants besieged the court house yesterday morning, out of whom Matron Wells selected three brunettes and one blonds. They are to report for duty on Monday morning This change is a disappointment to many of the prisoners, who thrived on the tips they received. While serving a six months' term one colored waiter derived such a revenue from the tips that at the expira-tion of his term he refused to leave the jail and the Sheriff had to put him out.

FIVE SHIPLOADS OF RETURNING AMERICAN TOURISTS.

Gen. Joe Wheeler Back From the French Army Manœuvres-His Trip to the Crow's-nest of the Philadelphia Other Notables on Passenger Lists.

In the cabins of five liners that arrived yesterday from European ports were more than 2,500 passengers, mostly American tourists. There wasn't a berth to spare on any ship and a dozen or more voyagers who wanted to get home in a hurry were forced to take passage in the steerage. Louis Westheit, a Western ranchman who arrived by the American liner Phila delphia, ate and slept in the steerage, and didn't like it. He offered big money for a cabin berth, but nobody would take it. Gen. Joe Wheeler and Senator Depew' Secretary, H. C. He talked with the lookout a bit, swept the horizon with his marine glasses and then returned to deck, cheered by all hands.

Gen. Wheeler said he had attended the French Army managuvres. He found them interesting, but he thought that the French had much to learn in a military way and were behindhand in several things. They still marched in close instead of extended formation and had no long-range guns. The General had travelled from thirty to forty miles a day following the troops.

THIRTY DIMES GROW TO $100 Needlework, Gardening and Trading on a Profitable Basis. Thirty members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Greenville Reformed Church in Jersey City received a dime each from the society's treasurer in June last with instructions to invest the money and return the principal and profits for the benefit of the church

Several bought soap and sold it to their neighbors at rates far beyond the market price. Others used their dimes to buy needles and thread and profited by their needlework. The majority invested in vegetable seed and were busy during the summer raising crops for the market. The Rev. Outo L. C. Mohn, the pastor, has received nearly $100 as a result of the women's pans to make money
